

- March 2014: The online forum 'Strategic Misogyny' begins blogging about the presence of sexual violence on university campuses.
- December 2015: Goldsmiths students independently organize the 'Sexual Harassment in Higher Education Conference' (SHHE), hosted on campus.
- May 2016: Professor and activist Sara Ahmed resigns from Goldsmiths in protest over the institution's failure to address sexual harassment in a robust and sustainable way.
- May 2016: The 'Goldsmiths Feminist Students' blog responds with an open letter to Sara Ahmed regarding her resignation.
- June 2016: Goldsmiths issues an official public statement regarding sexual harassment at the institution.
- June 2016: Goldsmiths' website publishes an open letter from Deputy Warden, Jane Powell, exploring gender-related issues.
- July 2016: the 'We Want Truth, Goldsmiths' blog publishes a call for action following Sara Ahmed's resignation.
- Summer 2016: The 1752 Group research and lobby organisation launches. It is formed and led by several of the same Goldsmiths graduates who organized the SHHE conference.
- October 2016: The Goldsmiths 'Staff Discrimination, Bullying and Harassment Policy' is updated to include information about sexual harassment.
- November 2016: Student-led direct action raises awareness around the issues of sexual harassment, with a craftivism session.
- March 2017: The Centre for Feminist Research at Goldsmiths hosts a 'Sexual Harassment Culture in Higher Education' Workshop
- March 2017: Goldsmiths College and SU secure HEFCE (Higher Education Funding Council for England) funding to create a programme that addresses sexual harassment.
- January - March 2017: Goldsmiths appoints a Strategy and Review Manager - Sexual Harassment, a key part of the College's ten-point plan to address sexual harassment.
- March 2017: Goldsmiths SU hosts the 'Speak Out Spoken Word' event as part of Sexual Harassment Awareness Week.
- December 2017: College Council approves a new policy and procedures for addressing incidences of sexual violence within the Goldsmiths community.
- January 2018: Goldsmiths publishes new 'Policy' and 'Report & Support' procedures.
- February 2018: Goldsmiths Students' Union passes the sexual harassment policy at Student Assembly.

- February 2018: Goldsmiths Students' Union begins offering Active Bystander Training workshops for some students, and builds this timeline to highlight the history of activism that has led to institutional and community change around issues of sexual violence on our campus.
- March 2018: The College and Students' Union officially launch the Against Sexual Violence campaign. This includes a new policy, procedure for reporting and accessing support, and expanded Active Bystander training sessions for students in the 2018/19 academic year.
- March 2018: The 'Latinx Community at Goldsmiths' student group hosts a workshop and discussion addressing issues of gendered violence within Latinx communities around the globe.
- April 2018: Tara, Welfare and Diversity Officer, and Amelia, Project Lead for Against Sexual Violence Campaign, facilitate a workshop at the NUS Women's Conference, covering best practices and campaign options for students' unions.
- June 2018: Goldsmiths Students' Union invited to share their work at the Lewisham Council Violence Against Women and Girls (VAWG) forum.
- August 2018: Goldsmiths Students' Union hold Against Sexual Violence campaign training for Students' Unions across London
- September 2018: Student Union Bar Staff take part in Training with the Good Night Out Campaign and become accredited
- October 2019: Goldsmiths speak at AdvanceHE EDI Conference about the project
- December 2018: Goldsmiths marks 16 Days of Action against Gender Based Violence, including hosting a talk with Survivors UK
- January 2019: Active Bystander Training is held in campus halls
- February 2019: Against Sexual Violence Campaign distributes 'Parentines Cards' for Students to thank friends who have supported them
- April 2019: Janeen Mantin delivers training on the Historical Realities of Sexual Violence in the Black Community
- September 2019: Active Bystander Training is rolled out campus-wide for all Goldsmiths students
- March 2020: Active Bystander Training is paused due to COVID-19
- November 2020: Goldsmiths Students' Union launched the Take Survivors Seriously campaign to stop the College from de-funding the ASV project
- November 2020: The ASV marks 16 Days 2020 with a programme of educational, wellness, and community events as well as a daily survivor coffee morning
- December 2020: The Take Survivors Seriously campaign wins the demand for continued funding
- February 2021: Consent Matters launches for all Goldsmiths students
- September 2021: Consent Matters is integrated into Student Induction and the ASV project partners with Academic Departments to offer Active Bystander Training to first-year students

- September 2021 - March 2022: Another successful year of Active Bystander Training running.
- March 2022: The ASV Project undergoes a rebranding process.
- September 2022: Ringfenced funding for ASV confirmed for another year.
- October 2022: Project launches as The CARE Project.